

Himalayan Balsam Removal

Date: Monday 9th June - Area near One Man Bridge

Another great afternoon pulling up balsam! Well, it's not so great when you're being stung all over your arms and legs by super fresh nettles, but it's a great feeling of satisfaction once you've finished!

← We tackled a couple of huge areas of Himalayan Balsam this afternoon near One Man Bridge. It was growing in dense patches of nettles for the most part - but eventually we did find our way → into a thicket of balsam closer to the river's edge which was a joy to pull - and no nettles in sight.

Thanks to Karen, Nick and Kathryn
